

Dustbin

Dustbin takes all the waste,
Some paper and some glue to paste.
They make rooms dean.
From dirt, dust, peas or bean.
They protect us from pollution,
And give warning and dirt-solution Even protect us from disease,
They lies in it stinky cheese.
I guess they are nice,
Keeping us dean and wise.

BRAVE SOLDIERS IN BATTLE FEILD

Brave soldiers
Brave soldiers at war,
Risk their lives daringly and Protect borders wide and far.
Leaving their,
Leaving their family, In the battle fields
They encounter the enemy.
Their duty,
Their duty is for noble cause,
At times it is so rigorous
Yet they never take a pause.
We owe,
We owe to them a lot.
When we celebrated and enjoyed They bore hardships, as they fought.
They die,
They die for their motherland.
I salute their sacrifice for us
They are true and selfless friends.
One thing,
One thing is true for sure.
"The more they sweat in peace
The less they will bleed in war

Dream & Goal

Fairy tales and Lands of cream,
Is it real or just a Dream?
All this is a chapter not a page,
Which gets finished with growing age.

Queries or doubts ask them all,
Because it's for the sake of your goal,
Pick up your pen and witness the change,
You can see your goal within the range.

Dream may be real or maybe not,
But my darling it's not your fault,
Swap it with goal and tell them all,
I am gonna achieve it, it's real after all,

Dream or goal it's one-of-a-kind, Dream is something which stays in your heart, But goal is something which plays with your mind.

PLANTS

Plants of all size,
Whether small or high rise,
With their colour green,
Add to earth's sheen.
For animals they are homes,
For birds resting spots.
For humans they are
boon in million ways,
So important is their place.
They only stand for giving,
But want little care in return,
Water, trim and protect them,
This lesson is to learn.
We have them, we are grateful.
They are absolutely useful.
Banyan, peepal and Eucalyptus,
Trees are nature's precious gifts.

MY ROUTINE

I get up early morning
With the sun rise
As it makes me
Healthy and wise.

Getting ready for the school I reach there punctually.

I enjoy study and activities Everybody
there is so friendly.

On return I have my lunch
With a glass of healthy drink.
Watch some TV or sit in peace,
How cool and refreshing!

Then I am all set for self-studies At my tree house small.

Later I invite my best buddies
To play and they come on my call.

BOOK

Books, books, books, I love their looks.
Some green, some blue,
they give me a clue.
They teach us about languages,
written on all their pages.
They help us when we are dull and bore.
They are like sweet folklore.
Books are my best friend.
I love their trend.
As they talk to me,
they tell stories when I am free.
Some spooky and some moral,
some make me visit land of coral.
Some take me to a reef.
Reading them gives me relief.
I read every night,
with my full might.
Books are nice.
They make me happy and wise.
Books, books, books
I love their looks.
Some green, some. blue,
They give me a clue.

THE DAY IS DARK

The day is dark!
On the sun a mark!
I don't know how?
Who did it now ?
Dogs are caged!
Lions are engaged!
Dinosaurs are back!
The day is black!
Fishes can fly!
Birds dead in sky !
I want everything to be fine.
Let's spark again and shine.

WHO IS SHE

She was a bit spooky,
and often said ,“dooky”.

Her eyes were deep,
and had sparkle-beep.

She was the queen,
never before seen.

She had a beautiful face,
and wanted to go back to the space.

She wiped my every tear,
made my face pink and clear.
Right now she lives on earth,
and her words still of worth.

Her hair was so long,
curly, wavy and strong.

She was the alien,
One in a billion.

PEARLS

Pearls are white.
They glow in the night.
They tell us not to fight.
Keeping them makes us feel light.
They are in the shell,
sometimes found in a well.
In a small case-like cell,
where purity and love dwell
They just seem to glow,
and make our minds blow
As we work a bit slow, usually in a row.
Pearls coloured like shining snow,
are nice enough for exhibition-show.
I added one to my pink bow,
later which was stolen by a crow.

A BIG BEAR

Imagine a bear, whose body is full of hair.

It goes to the fair, takes rides and sits on a rolling chair.

It eats some chocolate, and gains some weight.

And in a line for fried-fish
it waits which takes long, making it late .
Then the bear runs, towards a big van at once.

It thinks of a plan, and it helps a man .

It passes through a hole,
where it sees a small mole, tied in a roll

Bear starts to run , sunburnt, and becomes like a coal.

WHO STAYS WHERE

A bee lives in a hive, stays in a swarm of five.

I live in home,
which has a lovely dome.

Book is kept in a bag,
which is labelled with a tag

Pencil is put in a pencil-kit, in which it comes perfectly fit.

Chemical is kept in a lab, contained in a bottle, kept on the slab.

Car is placed in a showroom, that emits fragrance of perfume.
